

Sustainability

Corporate Social Responsibility has been included in the integral vision of the sustainable business of Flexim. Our approach is based on the definition of the European Commission indicating that Corporate Social Responsibility refers to companies that take responsibility for its impact on society.

Flexim values the social and economic impact of all choices they make while at the same time they take the interests of the stakeholders into account. These are both employees as well as clients or parties as investors, sub-contractors or local residents.

Flexim is always transparent in the works they exercise and evaluate the consequence of the social impact. Flexim doesn't shun the discussion, because they want to learn how her choices affect others. Corporate Social Responsibility creates social, environmental and economic value. Also known as the three p's: People, Planet and Profit. Corporate Social Responsibility increases the Flexim's financial performance in short and long term.
