Objective FM Academy

The objective of the FM Academy is to enable employees to further develop personal capacities and to acquire knowledge that can contribute to the proper pursuit of their work, both now and in the future.

The training must, on the one hand, fit the business interests and the development of your organization and, on the other hand, make a positive contribution to the qualification of the individual function and employability of the employee.

Sharing is growing

The FM Academy has an open structure. The participants can share experiences with colleagues from outside their own working circle. That gives all kinds of learning challenges. Speaking examples of these are Leadership and entrepreneurship, topics that are difficult to pick up from the theory.

In the FM Academy they learn with each other, thanks to exciting methodologies in practical situations. Mutual differences in qualities and responsibilities creates healthy competition and curiosity. Sharing is growing!

Integrated approach FM Academy

The practical training of the FM Academy has an integrated approach of Facility Management. The function-oriented curriculum specifically focusses on two parts of Facility Management:

Unilaterally, the competence and skills training under the guidance of a coach which takes place approximately once a month.

On the other hand, the substantive meetings involving different experts in the field of different subjects. These meetings take place once a month and are organized approximately 9 times a year.

“The program is a constant variation of theory and practice. We work according to the ‘action learning’ and ‘cross learning’ principles”.

The study material is directly related to the working situation of the participants. What the participants learn in the program can be applied directly in practice (action learning). Participants share each other’s experiences from different Facility Management branches (cross learning).
